Highlights

1. Defeat the Terrorists and Neutralize the Insurgents
   The overall number of security incidents in Iraq has declined in eight of the past 12 weeks, with the number of incidents in the last two weeks at the lowest levels seen since June 2006.

2. Transition Iraq to Security Self-Reliance
   Nearly 140 Iraqi Army, National Police and Special Operations Forces battalions are conducting security operations, with about 95 of those capable of taking the lead in operations with some Coalition support.

3. Help Iraqis to Forge a National Compact for Democratic Government
   Hours before congressional hearings on the progress of the U.S. military buildup, Iraqi Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki addressed the Council of Representatives, saying security had improved dramatically in the capital and Iraq was moving away from civil war. Maliki gave an optimistic assessment of his country's progress since the U.S. military buildup began in February, noting security gains had been made across Iraq, insisting his forces needed more time to take over full security responsibility from Coalition forces.

4. Help Iraq Build Government Capacity and Provide Essential Services
   Maliki agreed to dedicate $50 million to control the spread of cholera. The chief inspector for the Ministry of Health, Dr. Adel Mohsen, denied September 6 that the disease has spread to Iraq's central and southern provinces. According to Dr. Mohsen, cholera has not spread any further than Sulaimaniya and Kirkuk.
5. Help Iraq Strengthen Its Economy
Speaking in Baghdad, U.S. Coordinator for Economic Transition Charles Ries said that Iraq’s economy is likely to grow more than 6% in 2007, and if the oil sector is taken out, will likely be more than 7%. Ries said that the economy is underperforming, though, due to an inadequate supply of electricity, weakness in the oil sector, capacity constraints, and a lack of foreign and private investment.

6. Help Iraq Strengthen the Rule of Law
President Jalal Talabani said September 7 during a press conference in Sulaymaniyah that he would not sign the execution order of a top Saddam aide whom he personally had “provoked” to rebel against the executed dictator. If the approval of his three-member presidency is sought by the Iraqi supreme court, Talabani said he would refuse to sign the order of Sultan Hashim al-Tai, (senior officer who became defense minister during Saddam’s regime).

7. International Support for Iraq
Prime Minister Gordon Brown’s spokesman said the general approach of the U.S. and the United Kingdom was entirely consistent and that decisions on troop levels would be based on conditions on the ground and the assessment of the military. Brown had “very cordial and constructive” talks with President Bush September 10.

8. Strengthen Public Understanding of Coalition Efforts and Public Isolation of the Insurgents
An insurgent group in Iraq posted a videotape September 10 that showed a German hostage who has been held for more than six months and threatened to kill him unless Germany withdrew its troops from Afghanistan within ten days.
[1.] Defeat the Terrorists and Neutralize the Insurgency

General Petraeus’s Situational Report to Congress:

- General David Petraeus, the commanding general of Multi-National Force-Iraq presented a situational assessment on Iraqi security to Congress September 10-11. General Petraeus informed Congress that military objectives are, in large measure, being met.
- The overall number of security incidents in Iraq has declined in eight of the past 12 weeks, with the number of incidents in the last two weeks at the lowest levels seen since June 2006.
- Civilian deaths of all categories have declined by over 45% Iraq-wide since the height of the sectarian violence in December 2006 and declined by 70% in Baghdad.
- Iraq-wide, the number of ethno-sectarian deaths has come down by over 55% since December 2006 and by 80% in Baghdad.
- Coalition forces (CF) and Iraqi Security Forces (ISF) have found and cleared over 4,400 weapons caches so far this year; nearly 1,700 more than the number discovered all of last year.
- In the last eight months, CF and ISF have neutralized five media cells, detained the senior Iraqi leader of al-Qaida in Iraq, and killed or captured nearly 100 other key leaders and 2,500 rank-and-file fighters.
- In the last six months, CF and ISF have targeted Shia militia extremists, capturing a number of senior leaders and fighters, as well as the deputy commander of Lebanese Hezbollah Department 2800.

General Petraeus’s Remarks on Iraqi Security Forces:

- General David Petraeus, the commander of Multi-National Force-Iraq, presented an assessment on Iraqi Security Forces (ISF) to Congress September 10-11. He reported that ISF continue to grow, develop their capabilities, and shoulder more of the burden of providing security for their country. Despite concerns about sectarian influence, inadequate logistics and supporting institutions, as well as an insufficient number of qualified commissioned and noncommissioned officers, Iraqi units are engaged around the country.

- Nearly 140 Iraqi Army, National Police and Special Operations Forces battalions are conducting security operations, with about 95 of those capable of taking the lead in operations, albeit with some coalition support.

- 445,000 individuals are currently on the payrolls of Iraq’s Interior and Defense Ministries.

- Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki has decided to increase the number of ISF further by the end of this year, possibly by as much as 40,000.

[3.] Help Iraqis to Forge a National Compact for Democratic Government

Iraqi Prime Minister Says Civil War Prevented in Iraq:

- Hours before congressional hearings on the progress of the U.S. military buildup, Iraqi Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki addressed the Council of Representatives, saying security had improved dramatically in the capital and Iraq was moving away from civil war. Maliki gave an optimistic assessment of his country's progress since the U.S. military buildup began in February, noting security gains had been made across Iraq, insisting his forces needed more time to take over full security responsibility from Coalition forces.

Sadr Movement Says May Pull Out of Iraqi Coalition:

- The political movement loyal to cleric Muqtada al-Sadr said it may pull out of Iraq's ruling Shia coalition unless the government improves security and makes political progress. If Sadr's supporters withdrew they would leave Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki's alliance with just 83 seats in the 275-seat Iraqi parliament, but he could still be able form a small majority with support from Kurdish parties.

[4.] Help Iraq Build Government Capacity and Provide Essential Services – Electricity Overview

- Daily electricity demand September 5-11 was 21% above the same period in 2006. Daily supply from the electricity grid was 22% above 2006; it met 55% of total electricity demand, compared with 54% for the year-earlier period.

- Average hours of power via electricity grid after meeting demand from essential services: Baghdad 7.9 and nationwide 11.7. Year-ago levels were Baghdad 6.0 and nationwide 10.4.
[4.] Help Iraq Build Government Capacity and Provide Essential Services – Provision of Essential Services

Healthcare:

- Maliki agreed to dedicate $50 million to control the spread of cholera. The chief inspector for the Ministry of Health, Dr. Adel Mohsen, denied September 6 that the disease has spread to Iraq’s central and southern provinces. According to Dr. Mohsen, cholera has not spread any further than Sulaimaniya and Kirkuk. Official Iraqi estimates indicate that 2,000 cases have been confirmed. Dr. Mohsen also stated that the hot weather in the southern provinces has helped contain the disease to Kirkuk and Sulaimaniya, where the temperature is optimal for cholera bacteria.

Oil and Electricity:

- Kamal Field al-Basri, senior economic advisor to Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki and executive director of the Iraq Institute for Economic Reform told UPI September 6 that Iraq’s oil and electricity sector needs $79 billion in investment through 2011. He went on to say that the oil sector alone needs $56 billion, from pumping the oil to refining needed fuels. Al-Basri said that the optimal level for electricity is 21,000 megawatts and $23 billion would be needed to meet that. Iraq’s installed generation currently has a potential capacity of 11,000 megawatts.
[4.] Help Iraq Build Government Capacity and Provide Essential Services – Provision of Essential Services

Petrochemical:

- Dathar al-Khashab, director-general of the state run Midland Refineries Co., reported September 8 that Iraq will require up to $25 billion in investment to expand its refining capacity over the next five to seven years. Reuters reported that Khashab also said it would take approximately $1.5 billion to expand existing refineries. Additionally, plans are underway for the construction of a new 300,000 barrels per day (bpd) refinery in Nasisrya and three 150,000 bpd refineries in Amara, Kerbala, and Kirkuk.
[4.] Help Iraq Build Government Capacity and Provide Essential Services – Government Capacity

Basrah:
• The Basrah Provincial Reconstruction Team (PRT) reports that the Resource Statement for 2007 (collating donor and Iraqi projects) is nearing completion. It is designed to focus the Council on greater transparency in their work and allow for more effective prioritization of that work.

Kirkuk:
• The Kirkuk PRT reported during the period of 24-30 August that the electricity situation improved slightly, as regional power plants operated normally. The national grid supplied 16 hours per day to the Province, with households seeing 6-8 hours per day, still less than the recent averages of 10-12 hours per day.
[5.] Help Iraq Strengthen Its Economy – Oil Update and Job Creation

Oil Update:

- Crude oil price averages in world markets for the week ending August 31 closed with the following prices:
  - Basrah Light at $70.552/barrel
  - Dated Brent at $74.846/barrel
  - WTI Cushing at $75.945/barrel
  - Oman/Dubai at $70.29/barrel

[5.] Help Iraq Strengthen Its Economy - Banking Sector

Central Bank’s US Dollar (USD) Currency Auction:

- The following table shows volume sold of and exchange rates for USD in the Iraqi currency auction since April. Since September, the Central Bank of Iraq (CBI) has slowly appreciated the dinar, as suggested by the IMF, in an effort to rein in galloping inflation. There are signs that this effort has begun to bear fruit, as year-to-date inflation is 4.8% and the year-on-year inflation rate was 30.2% in July. This decline in the rate of inflation may be temporary, however, as the CBI has slowed its appreciation of the currency and the rate of inflation (particularly for energy prices) typically picks up in the second half of the year.

[5.] Help Iraq Strengthen Its Economy – Securities Markets

Trading of Iraqi Bonds on the International Secondary Bond Market:

- The following table shows the daily bond resale price and yield on Iraqi bonds issued January 20. The bonds were originally issued to approximately two-thirds of Iraq’s commercial creditors as part of a debt exchange arrangement as per Paris Club terms. Iraq’s commercial debt was approximately $22 billion before the debt-swap arrangement. The bonds, which are not yet rated, will mature in 2028.

Iraq Expected to See Rise in Economic Growth for 2007:

- Speaking in Baghdad, U.S. Coordinator for Economic Transition Charles Ries said that Iraq’s economy is likely to grow more than 6% in 2007. Ries said that the economy is underperforming, though, due to an inadequate supply of electricity, weakness in the oil sector, capacity constraints, and a lack of foreign and private investment.

President Talabani Opens Business Fair in Sulaymaniyah:

- Iraqi President Jalal Talabani opened a business fair in Sulaymaniyah region August 6, saying that the annual event played an important role in stimulating reconstruction projects in the northern Kurdish provinces and that the fair was a symbol of Iraq’s national unity.
- Over 276 Iraqi and international firms, many from Turkey and Iran, took part in the fair, offering a range of products and services from cars to telecommunications.

[6.] Help Iraq Strengthen the Rule of Law and Promote Civil Rights—Rule of Law

President Talabani Opposes Execution of Saddam Aide:

- President Jalal Talabani said September 7 during a press conference in Sulaymaniyah that he would not sign the execution order of a top Saddam aide whom he personally had “provoked” to rebel against the executed dictator. If the approval of his three-member presidency is sought by the Iraqi supreme court, Talabani said he would refuse to sign the order of Sultan Hashim al-Tai (senior officer who became defense minister during Saddam’s regime).

New Iraqi Corruption Fighter Named:

- The Iraqi government has named the deputy head of the country’s anti-corruption body to replace his boss, who is accused by a parliamentary committee of corruption himself, officials reported September 6. The new chairman of the Public Integrity Commission will be Moussa Faraj. A government official said the outgoing chairman, Radhi al-Radhi, had requested retirement and that Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki accepted. The official also said that Faraj will replace Radhi on a temporary basis until he is approved by parliament permanently to the new post.
[7.] Increase International Support for Iraq – Developments

Britain's Stance on Iraq Consistent with that of U.S.:
• Prime Minister Gordon Brown’s spokesman said the general approach of the U.S. and the United Kingdom was entirely consistent and that decisions on troop levels would be based on conditions on the ground and the assessment of the military. Brown had “very cordial and constructive” talks with President Bush September 10.

UN Appoints Mistura as its Top Envoy in Iraq:
• Swedish Diplomat Staffan de Mistura, who has worked at the U.N. for 30 years, was appointed September 5 as the new UN envoy to Iraq. De Mistura served as the U.N.'s deputy envoy to Iraq in 2005 and 2006, and replaces Pakistani diplomat Ashraf Qazi, who was named September 4 as the top U.N. representative to Sudan. Both of Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon's appointments have been agreed upon by the Security Council.
[7.] Increase International Support for Iraq – Developments

Iraqi Vice President Thanks Kuwait for its Full Support to Iraq:

- Iraqi Vice President, Dr. Adel Abdul Mahdi, thanked Kuwait during a September 10 visit for its full support to Iraq, which he said would help bring about a successful political process in Iraq and guarantee stability and security in the neighboring Arab country. Mahdi described the visit as "excellent", noting that he had heard from his Highness, the Amir of Kuwait Shaykh Sabah al-Ahmad al-Jaber al-Sabah "wise and excellent words of interest to Kuwait, Iraq, the region and Muslims in general".
